The State Archives: the guardians of our collective memory

The State Archives of the Spanish Ministry of Culture are a network of institutions that serve as the custodians of Spain's documentary heritage, housing more than eight centuries of history. These archives are more than mere records; they are a global chronicle, capturing the presence and connections of Spanish people across the world.

📍

Where can you find us?

The State Archives form a vast network of nine major archives, two specialized centers, and one central office—all under the stewardship of the Subdirectorato General of the Spanish State Archives. From Barcelona to Seville, as well as Madrid, Toledo, Valladolid, and Salamanca, these repositories stand as sentinels of history, some housed in buildings that are National Heritage landmarks.

📖

Our mission:

- ◆ Safeguarding and preserving documents that have shaped the course of Spanish history.
- ◆ Managing state-owned archives and advising other governmental ministries.
- ◆ Coordinating the Spanish Archives System to ensure historical continuity.
- ◆ Promoting the conservation, study, and dissemination of documentary heritage on a national and international scale.
- ◆ Overseeing the Central Archive of the Ministry of Culture.
